'TAX DEMAGOGUES' IN SOUTH PLAYED IN FORTSON TALK

Commissioners Attack 15-Mill Limitation and Longer Governor's Term. Social Security Laws Urged in Resolution.

HIGHWAY FUND DIVERSION IS HIT

Benefits From WPA Is Subject of Shepperson Talk; Sessions Will Close Today at Ansley.

Assailing "tax demagogues" in the south, Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens, last night advocated a reallocation of the tax burden in Georgia by shifting state funds to local governments in his address before the Association of County Commissioners of Georgia at the Ansley hotel.

"The trouble in Georgia is not that we pay too much in taxes but that the tax burden is unequally borne," he declared.

His address, delivered at the banquet given the state county commissioners by Fulton county, followed a day of speeches on subjects pertinent to county government.

Chaos Predicted.

Speaking on the proposed constitutional amendment to limit taxation to 15 mills, said that "chaos will be created in Georgia" if the amendment is adopted by the voters in the fall election.

Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA director, told the commissioners that the federal government has "invested" $75,000,000 in relief activities in Georgia and that already splendid "dividends" in better health, lower birth rates, decreased illiteracy and better general conditions have been paid back. She said the wealth of Georgia lies in its people.

Harry Brown, state director of extension work, outlined the new farm extension work.

Regents Offer WGST On Lease Extension

Regents of the Georgia University System offered yesterday to extend the lease on Radio Station WGST to Southern Broadcasting Station, Inc., for ten years provided the company increases the unit's power.

The station, owned by the Georgia School of Technology, now operates on 1,000 watts during the day and 500 watts during the night. The regents specified that the power should be stepped up to 5,000 watts within 12 months and to 10,000 watts as soon as the Federal Radio Commission approved.

Under the present lease agreement, the station netted $7,200 for the school last year.

The present contract has three years and six months longer to extend. The ten-year contract would begin at the expiration of the present agreement.

Nance Is Slated for Appointment As Southeastern Security Director

Labor Leader, Social Worker To Be Named by President Roosevelt.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The appointment of A. Steve Nance, Atlanta labor leader, to be regional director of the Social Security Board for the southeastern states, has been agreed upon by administration leaders, it was learned authentically today.

The appointment of Nance and the nine other regional directors will be sent to the senate within a week or 10 days. It is understood that the President has not definitely determined on one or two of the directors and is withholding the nomination of the others until he has the full group selected.

Based on Social Work.

The selection of Nance was based more on his record of social service than his work for organized labor, although he was president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades for six years and is serving his second term as president of the Georgia Federation of Labor.

In the field of social service Nance is vice president of the Georgia conference on social work, a member of the executive committee of the Atlanta Community Chest, a member of the advisory board of the Salvation Army and also a member of the board of the Family Welfare Society.

Winds Up Affairs.

The appointment of Nance is understood to meet with the full approval of Senators Walter F. George and Richard B. Russell Jr. as well as the members of the Georgia delegation in the house of representatives. The Atlanta leader was here several weeks ago and is understood to be winding up his business affairs in Atlanta at present.

The regional office of the security board will be at Birmingham but it is expected that Nance, who will travel his area out of the Birmingham office, will continue to maintain his Atlanta residence.

The Social Security Board will handle unemployment insurance, old age benefits, old age pensions and other matters pertaining to general social service covered in the act of congress passed last year.

PWA TO CONTINUE ON SMALL SCALE

Monies From Hopkins' Allocation To Be Employed for It, Tugwell.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—(AP)—A smaller scale continuance of the public works and resettlement administration, largely under the financial auspices of Harry L. Hopkins' Work Progress Administration, was promised today by President Roosevelt.

Coincidentally, Secretary Ickes, who had announced yesterday he would testify before the senate appropriations subcommittee considering the $2,364,220,712 relief and deficiency bill this morning, postponed his appearance until afternoon. Again, when the time came it was announced the PWA chief would not appear until tomorrow.

Ickes' Appearance Unlikely.

Finally, Chairman Adams, democratic leader of the senate appropriations committee told newsmen it was "unlikely" we can find out what we want to know from his record.

Between the first two postponements, the public works administration conferred with Roosevelt at lunch. Secretary Ickes declined to comment but declined any comment whatever on his White House conversation.

Reford G. Tugwell has testified before the senate committee that the resettlement agency would "fold up" on July 1 unless given new money.

The committee has before it a proposal to expand the bill by $700,000,000 and the money to be given to the Public Works Administration. President Roosevelt has flatly opposed such an allocation.

Even as the chief executive announced continuance of PWA and RA, senators who have importuned the subcommittee to expand or earmark funds directly for the agencies greeted Mr. Roosevelt's assurances Hopkins

FRANCE WILL SEEK WAR DEBT DEATH

Blum Would End 'Misunderstanding,' But Won't Consider Repayment.

PARIS, May 15.—(AP)—Leon Blum, slated to be France's first socialist premier, today declared he was anxious to bring about a "legal death" of France's debts to America.

The leader of the people's front, addressing the American Club, declared a "misunderstanding" between the United States and France, and declared: "In France we believe the question of debts is eliminated."

His reference to a "misunderstanding" was interpreted in political circles as indicating his anxiety to secure an agreement between the United States, Great Britain and France that the debts are "dead" in order to rebuild the friendships of these wartime allies.

Won't Reopen Talks.

Socialist sources said the premier had no intention of reopening debt talks, but would be "glad to consider" American or British proposals for a legal end to the question.

Blum expressed hope for world reconciliation—based on currency stabilization and disappearance of trade barriers—would eliminate debt feeling.

He said that existing animosity between the two countries, he said, "and the only means of eliminating it, I believe, is by frankness."

"I believe Americans fail to understand to what extent the Dawes plan and Hoover moratorium created in our minds a logical connection between the payments of debt, Germany (to France) and our payments to creditor America."

The socialist government, which takes office June 1, will be willing to work for peace with all nations, Blum declared, "no matter what their politics or their internal government."

Explaining his position on the debt problem, the prospective premier asserted:

"French opinion doubtfully failed to understand this unilateral denunciation of a contract would wound anything besides commercial honesty."

Cobb Says: Politics In '96 Homicidal

B. IRVIN S. COBB.

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 15.—They say this will be the liveliest, fiercest and years, with gleeful clubs galloping and the boys out with brass bands—and brass bands; and batteries of college professors firing on opposition college professors; and Fletcher Fletcher and Farley Farley; and the radio going 36 hours a day.

But they'll never reclaim the glorious annual spirit. We're too tame. The '96. Now, there was a campaign for you. When Bryan was a discovery instead of a chronic recurrence.

Two lifelong friends would meet. "What d'ye think of this here, silver thing?" one would ask. "I think it's the greatest notion in history," the second fellow would say. "What do you think?" "I think you're a dirty such-and-such" the first man would yell, and then everybody would start bounding those old-fashioned brass cuspids off of everybody else's dome.

Ah, then was the happy, snappy, scrappy days when mayhem was but mildness and the more positive side of politics was homicide.

KURT SCHUSCHNIGG PROCLAIMS SELF RULER OF AUSTRIA

Disarms Prince's Private Army and Joins Ranks of Dictators; Heimwehr May Contest Decree.

VIENNA, May 15.—(UP)—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg tonight formally proclaimed himself absolute dictator of Austria.

The dramatic proclamation climaxed the bloodless coup d'etat by which Schuschnigg sheared fascist leader Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg of all power.

Speaking to the powerful fatherland front of which he assumed complete control, Schuschnigg said dictatorship of Austria henceforth will rest with his own individual personality instead of in the dual system by which he and Starhemberg directed the regime. Starhemberg was ousted Wednesday and dissolution of his troops, the heimwehr, was begun.

Decisive Hour.

"We are assembled here in an earnest and decisive hour," Schuschnigg said.

"With full consciousness of my responsibility and in memory of the late Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, I hereby take over national leadership of the fatherland front."

Thus, Schuschnigg, frail, scholarly and devout churchman, became the fourth member of the "European Dictators' Club" joining Premier Benito Mussolini, of Italy, Chancellor Adolf Hitler, of Germany; and Josef Stalin, of Russia.

Schuschnigg said Starhemberg's fascist heimwehr was being disarmed, presumably to avert civil war in reparation for the political death of their leader.

The heimwehr is Starhemberg's private army.

The disarming began almost simultaneously with Schuschnigg's declaration at the cabinet, in a surprise move.

TOWNSEND TICKET TRAILS IN OREGON

Early Vote Gives F. D. R. 2,552 Ballots; Senator Borah Is Unopposed.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 15.—(AP)—Senator Charles L. McNary took a lead on the first complete reports tonight from three state precincts in today's primary election. McNary polled 212 for the republican renomination, Sam Brown 51 and Theodore Nelson 52.

Candidates supporting the Townsend pension plan were running in third place early tonight.

President Roosevelt and Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, were unopposed as candidates for the democratic and republican presidential nominations.

McNary, seeking renomination on an 18-year record of congressional service, piled up 3,633 votes in the first 80 precincts out of 1,627 in the state, to 814 for Brown, Gervais farmer and former state senator.

Trailing them was Theodore G. Nelson, of Salem, a prominent figure in the Townsend pension movement in Oregon, who received 630 votes.

President Roosevelt received a complete victory, 2,552 votes, while Senator Borah received 2,857. Both totals were for 80 precincts.

The race for the democratic nomination for United States senator was an all-Townsend battle. Mayor Willis Mahoney, of Klamath Falls, built up a slim lead over John A. Jeffrey, Portland lawyer, getting 1,647 votes.

First Lady Will Give Lawn Party For Girls in Washington Prison

WASHINGTON, May 15.—(UP)—An invitation which is all that an institution can do to be said: "From the point of view of public opinion, I think it is a very good thing for these girls who help make people realize the conditions that exist. But the fact that it will make those who have been deprived of so many things very happy is enough to justify it in itself."

Today Mrs. Roosevelt and the ladies of the cabinet gave a picnic for the girls in the White House lawn. This afternoon, women holding executive positions in government departments, wearing summer garden party dresses, were guests there. Monday society people will attend a garden party on the same lawn.

All of these are accustomed to the White House gardens.

But the visit tomorrow will be a new treat for the inmates of the school. Mrs. Roosevelt pointed out

BARON SPEEDERS BY SUSPENSIONS ASKED BY BOARD

'Safety' Committee Holds First Meeting in Atmosphere of Harmony; Chiefs Given Power.

Co-operation of city recorders in a drive to curb speeding by "grounding" offenders for at least 10 days" will be sought by the newly-created safety committee, it was decided last night at the meeting of that body.

Contrasting with the last regular meeting of the old police committee, when Councilman G. Dan Bridges, chairman, and J. Allen Couch, member, clashed over policies, the safety committee last night launched its supervision over the department with apparent harmony and statements that "Chiefs T. O. Sturdivant and A. Lamar Poole are to be chiefs in fact as well as in name."

Reynolds Suggests Drive.

The drive on speeders was suggested by Alderman Frank H. Reynolds, chairman, who asserted that if recorders will back the committee up, speeding and reckless driving can be curbed.

"Men driving 60 miles an hour or any other excessive speed should be fined, but in addition they should be sentenced to the city prison farm with the sentence suspended on agreement that they will not drive a car for a stipulated length of time," Reynolds said.

"If the parole is broken, the offender should be sent immediately to the prison. That will break up speeding and recklessness."

Reynolds also cited to the committee reported brusque and discourteous treatment by officers. Chief Sturdivant said he would warn all members of the department that such would not be tolerated.

MORE JAP TROOPS MOVE INTO CHINA

7,600 Fresh Troops Go to Garrisons as Fear of Conquest of Nation Grows.

TIENSIN, China, May 15.—(AP)—Japan marched 7,600 fresh troops into North China garrisons and Chinese sources expressed fear tonight it was a step in a campaign for the ultimate conquest of China.

The soldiers, totaling four transport loads of reinforcements, were moved into the Tientsin and Peiping garrisons.

Chinese sources asserted that Japan was encouraged to make the move by Italy's annexation of Ethiopia in defiance of the League of Nations and leading European powers.

Japan now has 15,000 troops in China south of the Great Wall, an estimated 30,000 troops of the Great Wall and several thousand at other points of Inner Mongolia.

Occupation Seen.

(A spokesman in Tokyo said the reinforcements would not injure China's sovereignty or the vested interests of other powers.)

Informed Chinese sources asserted the Japanese movements were designed either for the ultimate occupation of North China and Inner Mongolia or for a possible future war with Soviet Russia.

The principal portion of the new troops was quartered in barracks of the Japanese concession in Tientsin. This afternoon, women holding executive positions in government departments, wearing summer garden party dresses, were guests there. Monday society people will attend a garden party on the same lawn.

All of these are accustomed to the White House gardens.

But the visit tomorrow will be a new treat for the inmates of the school. Mrs. Roosevelt pointed out

Winship Warns Puerto Rico Rioters Force Will Be Used To Keep Order

Governor Declares Flag of U. S. Must Not Be Molested.

SAN JUAN, P. R., May 15.—(AP)—Puerto Ricans, in the midst of a disorder-marked campaign for national election, were warned by Governor Blanton D. Winship today that "the employment of crime and violence or terrorism will not be tolerated."

In an order by telegram to all mayors, judges, prosecuting attorneys and police chiefs of the island the governor demanded prompt prosecution of desertions of the United States flag.

American flags have been torn down in recent demonstrations and the national flag banner hoisted. The one-starred Puerto Rican flag was raised today over the schools and the city hall of Ponce, on Guayama, where the first United States troops landed during the Spanish-American war.

"Should there be any person rash enough to disregard this warning and attempt to use methods of lawlessness and intimidation," Governor Winship told the officials, "you, as agents of the law, are expected to take immediate action against such violators."

"I call on all good citizens to stand shoulder to shoulder with the constituted authorities for the preservation of law and order and I shall employ the forces at my command to the limit necessary to protect children, women and all other citizens abiding by the law."

The governor announced he had signed a bill passed by the last insular legislature requiring all employees as well as officials of the insular government to take an oath to support the constitution of the United States and the laws of Puerto Rico.

VET LEADER TO HEAD PUERTO RICO POLICE

SAN JUAN, P. R., May 15.—(AP)—The newspaper El Pais said today that General Pelham Glassford, who was police commissioner in Washington, D. C., at the time of the bonus march in 1932, had been asked by Governor Blanton Winship to assume charge of the insular police during the present independence movement. Governor Winship's office declined comment on the report.

PRIMARY ENTRIES WILL CLOSE TODAY

Roosevelt Expected To Be Unopposed; Larsen, Rivers May Seek Office.

Entries in the Georgia presidential preference primary will be closed at 1 o'clock, Atlanta time, today, and although the chairman of the state democratic executive committee announced he will remain in his office until that hour it is generally expected that there will be no opposition to President Roosevelt, who has qualified as a candidate.

Governor Talmadge has made no comment on the situation but his close friends say he will not enter.

Governorship Announcements.

The closing of the entries in the primary will be without opposition to the President will be the signal for the opening gun in the gubernatorial campaign. The formal announcement of Speaker D. R. Rivers of the house of representatives and former Congressman W. W. Larsen, of Dublin, are expected before night.

Roosevelt enthusiasts were certain yesterday that there will be no opposition to the President and that his $100,000 entry fee will be returned.

Campaign Manager Marion H. Allen, Rivers' candidacy.

Announcement of the Rivers candidacy for governor has been called by Attorney Charles S. Reid, of Atlanta. This meeting, which will be addressed by the speaker of the house, is expected to be held in the afternoon.

Judge Larsen, who served 12 years in congress, yesterday submitted his resignation as speaker of the house to this region to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. He is in Washington and the announcement of his candidacy is expected to come from the national capital.

Other prospective candidates for governor are Azbit Nix, of Athens; Governor Talmadge; and someone sponsored by the Governor, Solicitor General W. Y. Atkinson, of Newnan; J. J.

2 INDICTED IN PLOT ON AL SMITH JR.

Attorney, Private Detective Charged in Extortion; Blonde Employed.

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP)—Two men were indicted today on charges of extorting money from Alfred E. Smith Jr., son of the former governor.

The indictments were returned by a grand jury that heard testimony from Smith and four other witnesses, including Catherine Marie Pavlick, a blue-eyed blonde from Queens.

One of the defendants, Max D. Krone, 33, a private detective, was arrested immediately. The other, A. Henry Ross, Brooklyn lawyer, notified the district attorney's office through an intermediary that he would surrender.

Krone and Ross were charged jointly.

Labor Unrest Forces Polish Cabinet Out

WARSAW, May 15.—(AP)—The Polish cabinet, harried by labor unrest, resigned today and General Felicjan Slawski-Skladkowski immediately formed a new group of ministers with himself as premier.

Former Premier Marjan Zyndram Kosciakowski assumed the posts of labor and social welfare. Antony Roman became minister of commerce and industry and Witold Grabowski, minister of justice.

Slawski-Skladkowski, in addition to the premiership, also took over the ministry of the interior. The new premier, a close friend of the late dictator, Pilsudski, was vice minister of war in the resigned cabinet.

(Kosciakowski's cabinet was formed October 13, 1935, and was faced not only with labor problems but also anti-semitic difficulties throughout the republic.)

ROOSEVELT PLAN ON SURPLUS LEVY IS EMASCULATED

Flat 18 Per Cent Tax on Corporate Income, 7 Per Cent on Surplus and Subjecting of Dividends to Income Tax Listed.

PROCESSING LEVY PLEA IS REFUSED

With Goal of Adjournment in 3 Weeks, Harrison Tags 5 Bills 'Must' But Byrns Only 2.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—(AP)—Members of the senate finance committee tonight predicted formal approval tomorrow of a compromise on the house-approved tax measure evolved today. It would:

1. Practically junk President Roosevelt's plan to replace taxes on corporation income with a levy ranging up to 45 per cent on undistributed profits, as approved by the house, by substituting flat 7 per cent tax on surpluses.
2. Place a flat 18 per cent tax on corporate income.
3. Raise the individual income tax rate 25 per cent, from 4 to 5 per cent.
4. Subject corporate dividends to this tax instead of the present surtax.

Committee said details of the new plan may be altered when the treasury submits new revenue estimates but it will remain substantially as now agreed.

The floor in income levies would apply to all incomes now taxed, whether derived from corporate sources or otherwise.

Senator La Follette, progressive, Wisconsin, committee member, has a series of income tax amendments pending, which he proposed to offer first to the committee and, if unsuccessful there, on the senate floor.

Among La Follette's proposals is an increase of the normal individual income rate from 4 to 6 per cent.

The committee agreed at a closed-door session to seek to strengthen the measure.

Russell Would Limit Relief to Residents

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Georgia's share of the $1,425,000,000 contained in the house deficiency appropriation bill for WPA relief work will go in large part to bona fide residents of the state, if an amendment proposed today by Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. is adopted.

The amendment provides that not more than one-half of 1 percent of the total number of persons employed within any state can be persons who were non-residents of the state at the time of the appointment or employment of such persons and that not more than one percent of the total amount allocated for expenditures for any purpose within the state be paid in salary, wages, or other compensation, to any person who was not a bona fide resident of such state at the time of his appointment or employment.

The deficiency bill is now before a subcommittee of the committee on appropriations and Senator Russell will offer his amendment when the measure is brought to the floor for consideration probably next week.

KNOXVILLE GIRL'S BODY IS RETURNED TO HOME

Simple Services Will Be Held for Victim of Lighter Cap.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 15.—A casket bearing the body of Pauline Lane, 16, who died in Philadelphia Wednesday of a hemorrhage resulting from a cigarette lighter cap in her lung, will arrive here early tomorrow by train.

Simple funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at a little neighborhood Presbyterian church she frequently attended. She will be buried in a small country churchyard, 16 miles east of Knoxville.

Pauline's schoolmates and friends will carry her body to the grave. Floral wreaths will bear the name "Buddy"—the name an old negro mammy gave her when she was a baby.

Cheerful Girl.
Smiling and cheerful, the slender girl left Knoxville eight days ago for a clinic in Philadelphia for an operation to remove the inch-long metal slug which she sucked into her windpipe April 24 while laughing. Two operations here had been unsuccessful.

She died with the belief the metal had been removed in Knoxville and she was going to Philadelphia to have her lung treated.

Mrs. James Lane, the frail, little mother, received a letter from Pauline today—written the day before she died.

In childish language she appealed for her father to come to her bedside—somebody, she wrote, "to be with me."

"This is a nice place but home is much nicer," she said, and ended the letter with "I'll everybody love you till I get home."

The day Pauline died, her father, who works for a coal company, was attempting to raise funds to go to Philadelphia. His fellow workmen had contributed $15.

Raising Money.
Friends and neighbors of the family are now raising more money to apply to burial expenses for Pauline. Expenses of her trip were paid by her physician, Dr. Reese Patterson, of Knoxville.

Mrs. Lane today disputed the report of a Philadelphia coroner, who said Pauline's lung in an autopsy resembled a lipstick cap.

She exhibited an oblong, eight-sided cigarette lighter from which the cap was missing and said the cap went into Pauline's windpipe and lung.

TOWNSEND STRENGTH UNDERGOES TEST

PORTLAND, Ore., May 15.—(P)—The Townsend pension movement underwent a strength test today in Oregon's primary election.

Pro-Townsend and anti-Townsend candidates battled for nominations for United States senator and for representative in the state's three congressional districts.

The veteran Senator Charles L. McNary, republican floor leader, sought re-election against the efforts of Sam Brown, a farmer, and Theodore G. Nelson, former North Dakota politician. Both Brown and Nelson claimed Townsend support.

Republican National Committeeman Ralph Williams, up for re-election, was opposed by Charles F. Townsend, a Ben Davis, a prominent member of the American League.

Representative James W. Mott had no opposition for the republican nomination in the first district. Three democrats competed—State Senator Byron G. Carney, opponent of the Townsend transactions tax plan; State Senator Curtis D. Stringer, who ignored the issue, and State Representative E. W. Kirkpatrick, an anti-Townsendite.

Representative Walter Pierce and State Representative Clinton P. Halght sought the second district democratic nomination. Out of five republican contenders only Roy Ritten opposed the Townsend plan.

Third district (Portland) democratic contenders were Nanny Wood, Honeyman, Louise Palmer, Weber and Walter B. Gleason, anti-Townsendites, and Warren Erwin and Walter Whitehead, Townsend advocates.

Republican candidates were Representative William Ekwall, anti-Townsendite, and Harry Kenin and Charles M. Thomas, Townsend supporters.

Krone refused to discuss the case when questioned by two assistant district attorneys. He was booked at a police station and ordered lodged in the Tombs for the night. Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings:

Adjourns After Three Weeks.
This first decisive action of the committee strengthened hopes of democratic leaders in both house and senate for closing the seventy-fourth congress in three weeks.

The majority leader, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, passed the word to the senate today that except for five major proposals he would object to taking up any legislation that might keep congress at work after June 6.

His exceptions were taxes, ratification of the London naval treaty and the deficiency-relief, omnibus flood control and commodity exchange bills.

The other three bills, the capitol, Speaker Byrne predicted the house would "reach for its hat when the tax bill and the deficiency appropriation bill are out of the way." He voiced a hope that the senate would be ready to quit by June 5.

courteous the chief suspend the offending officer and the committee will kick him up.

Reynolds also suggested that motorcycle men be shifted from the ball park, Lakewood and the Atlanta airport, and that uniformed traffic men be placed there. Sturdivant said he would take that matter up with Captain Jack Malcom, who is in charge of traffic. Reynolds' idea was to have the motorcycle men free to curb speeding and reckless driving, he said.

Patrolmen J. D. Corley and L. F. Preston were suspended for 15 days each when they pleaded guilty to wrecking a city car chasing traffic violators beyond the city limits.

Parker Trial Postponed.
Trial of M. P. Parker, policeman, charged with being drunk, was postponed until the May 28 meeting of the committee. W. Paul Carpenter, Parker's attorney, praised Key for his committee selection.

Councilman J. Howard C. McCutcheon's ordinance increasing the power of records to adjudge citizens in contempt was referred to the city attorney for a report.

Councilman Max M. Cuba's proposal to increase the motorcycle squad from 22 men to 40 will be studied by a subcommittee, which Reynolds will name.

Revocation of the permits to sell malt beverages of the Pea Patch inn on Highland avenue and two Teeny-Weeny establishments on Euclid avenue and on Marietta street will be recommended to council Monday.

Mauldin Reinstatement.
Reuben Garland, representing C. W. Mauldin, discharged for being drunk and driving a citizen in a Fair street cafe, failed in his effort to have the committee consider reinstatement. Committee members also deferred consideration of other applications for reinstatement for men who were dismissed by previous committees.

Sturdivant informed the police committee that a record of local establishments licensed by the federal government to sell whisky would be sent to the police because all the places which the city licenses to sell wine or beer have federal licenses which enable holders to sell whisky as well as wine.

From the treasury tax advisers, he said, the committee came another set of figures to show how giant corporations would be affected by the house bill.

They listed 776 corporations as having statutory net income in 1934 and informed the committee these firms paid $254,000,000 in taxes. Had the new law it was estimated they would have paid $437,000,000, a difference of $183,000,000.

Several committee members questioned the value of the calculations.

Harrison said the $437,000,000 figure was based on application of the highest rate—42.12 per cent—contemplated in the house rates which are graduated according to percentages of income withheld from distribution to stockholders.

Byrd Not Satisfied.
He and Senator Byrd, democrat, Virginia, noted, too, the calculations of the 15-hour bill, which would apply to some corporations, such as those required to use some earnings to meet indebtedness or deficit.

Also handed over by the treasury was data intended to show certain big share-holders in certain corporations would have their taxes increased greatly under the house measure.

Committee members, and Mariner S. Eccles, federal reserve board chairman, have suggested several plans contemplating a 15 per cent flat rate on corporation earnings accompanied by various brackets of graduated rates to apply to undivided corporate profits.

Again today the morning session produced no vote on any of them.

The treasury has given assurances a plan along these lines could be formulated as to bring in the $925,000,000 requested by the President to meet the cost of the new farm program and the added expense of preparation of the bonds.

Housing Delay Looms.
When Senator Wagner, democrat, New York, said he wanted consideration of his $276,000,000 housing bill, Robinson told him the bill was important but he would be opposed to holding congress in session beyond June 6.

At the same time, he conceded trouble might arise in attempting to adjust in conference senate-house differences on various legislative items and this factor might prevent attainment of the adjournment goal.

He added his five-point program was not designed to prevent consideration of other legislation that would not hold up congress.

"I am anxious," said Robinson, "to end the session before the republican convention meets—if it doesn't abandon its purpose of meeting."

He added that continuation of a "full measure of co-operation" would be required.

Penny Box of Matches Sole Loot of Burglar

The smallest burglary in Atlanta criminal annals, in point of value of the loot, was reported to police last night.

J. H. Alexander, of 394 Sixth street, N. E., told detectives that a burglar entered his home by prying open a rear window Thursday night, ransacked drawers and closets in various rooms and escaped with only a penny box of matches.

Enforcement of Traffic Laws, Safe Driving Solution of Problem

Murders which have baffled detectives for years and have finally been catalogued in police records as "unsolved" appear no more baffling than Atlanta's traffic situation.

Great streams of heavy traffic converge at a point, a hopeless tangle results and traffic is tied up. Some driver tries to force his way through. Fenders are smashed, a pedestrian is struck down or another motorist is injured. The snarled lines of traffic probably was caused by some driver who violated a rule of driving or of courtesy.

The three principal causes of Atlanta's appalling traffic problems, according to a study made by The Constitution Safety Council, are driving and parking regulations, the layout of the streets in the downtown section and the drivers themselves.

"Bottle-Neck" Junctions.
The system of streets cannot be changed at this late date. The city must do the best it can to control traffic with "bottle-neck" junctions, wide streets sending their flow of traffic into narrow ones and other malformations of the street system.

Traffic regulations are changed by the police department from time to time in an effort to help the situation. But for no complete new reformatting of traffic has been made as a major step in solving the problem.

The remaining factor in Atlanta's traffic quandary is the driver. Will he or will he not drive safely and courteously to help Atlanta erase the blot of being the country's worst traffic city?

This means will you, yourself, drive safely, obey driving and parking rules and act courteously when at the wheel of your car?

Jobless Pair Enter Sealed Mine, Are Lost 15 Hours in Labyrinth

PITTSBURGH, May 15.—(P)—Two men lost in an abandoned mine walked out into the sunlight with their rescuers today after wandering more than 15 hours through a dark 15-mile labyrinth of tunnels and corridors under the hills of suburban Pittsburgh.

The pair, Arthur Tonner, 35, and Robert Dyer, 36, unemployed steel workers, grinned and blinked through features that were black with coal dust.

Dyer said: "We were in about a mile when they found us. Our lights went out. We were lost. That's all there is to it."

A crew from the United States Bureau of Mines effected the rescue. Outside, road workers were blasting. The disturbance could be felt underground.

M. J. Ankeney, one of the rescue workers, said: "Some places were caved in. We had to crawl. The water in the passageways at some points was two feet deep."

"When we got about a mile in, those two were sitting on a pile of rock, and one of them said to us: 'Boy, we're glad to see you.'"

Dyer told Ankeney: "We were following a trail when we hit a place where the oxygen was low. It was black damp. That put out our air. So we got up on the rocks and sat."

The two men entered the mine about 1 o'clock this morning. They left a friend, Edwin Miller, waiting at the only entrance to the property, sealed since its resources were exhausted.

Miller waited all night, then notified the authorities. He said Dyer and Tonner were hunting for copper wire. Soon after emerging, Tonner and Dyer were taken to the district attorney's office along with Miller for questioning.

Officers said anybody going into the mine must obtain official permission.

LEAGUE FEARS EXODUS OF SMALLER NATIONS

Guatemalan Action Feared Inspired by Duce in Emasculation Effort.

GENEVA, May 15.—(P)—League of Nations council, distressed by Guatemala's resignation and fear of a small nation stampede away from membership, received a further shock tonight with disclosure the International Red Cross had refused to send gas masks to Ethiopia during the Italian invasion.

An official communication to the League said the Red Cross could not respond to an appeal from its Ethiopian branch because the request failed to specify the purpose for which the masks would be used.

Secretary General Joseph A. C. Avenol earlier received notice of resignation from Guatemala, one of the original signatories of the League covenant.

Duce's Hand Hinted.
The republic's withdrawal, which cannot be effective for two years, led League circles to wonder if the action was the start of a "stampede" engineered by Premier Mussolini or merely an isolated move.

Fear was expressed the Italian dictator might be herding out the smaller members before jeopardizing the security framework by withdrawing his nation from the roster.

The Red Cross revelation, which created a sensation in Geneva, said the international organization could only furnish gas masks through its affiliated societies, for medical personnel or patients.

Its attitude, the committee emphasized, "must not be interpreted as passive acceptance of a method of warfare which it has never ceased to condemn."

The Red Cross also announced it had accepted the task of investigating all charges of inhuman warfare as suggested by Italy.

Delay Dumdum Report.
Publication of a lengthy accusation by Italy against Great Britain for alleged sale of "dumdum" bullets to Ethiopia has been delayed, the Red Cross asserted, for technical reasons. Great Britain's reply has already been prepared, it was said.

Official League sources, reviewing Guatemala's resignation, said they saw an indication Mussolini had brought "commercial" pressure against the Central American republic. Guatemala's coffee exports have been greatly benefited by Italian patronage, they declared.

Italy's "surprise" present to Costa Rica was cited as an example of the fascist policy toward Latin-America. Costa Rica ordered a shipment of machine guns from Italy, it was reported, and received twice the number of the order as a "surprise" without additional cost.

Guatemala now owes the League approximately $45,000 in back dues, League officials said.

(The League rules provide a nation may not withdraw until its dues are paid and only after two years' notice.)

LAWRENCE IS CHEERED BY SOUTHERN BAPTISTS

Mission Board Executive Tells of Plans for Evangelism Department.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 15.—Dr. J. B. Lawrence, Atlanta, was cheered repeatedly tonight by Southern Baptists in annual session here as the mission executive announced plans of the Home Mission Board to re-establish a department of evangelism.

As the plans were being announced, Dr. M. E. Dodd, Shreveport, La., interrupted to make a motion that the Southern Baptist Convention approve the re-establishment of an evangelistic department by the Home Mission Board. This motion carried unanimously.

The Home Mission Board has not had a department of evangelism for a number of years.

"I have the money in the bank," said Dr. Lawrence, "already earmarked and appropriated by the board to begin the work of a new evangelistic department."

Spiritual Life Waterlogged.
Just prior to this announcement, as the mission leader presented the ninety-first annual report of the Home Mission Board, he had charged that the "spiritual life of our churches is being waterlogged by the modern world spirit."

"This modernistic spirit," he continued, "denies that man is a lost creature, that regeneration is necessary, and contends that Jesus is only a teacher." He further insisted that Baptists have nothing else to give the world but the gospel.

The mission executive challenged Baptists to a program that would evangelize the world in one generation. "If the commission of Christ were carried out," he declared, "Christians would contact personally every individual in one generation."

100,000 missionaries would be needed to accomplish this goal of evangelizing the world in one generation. Dr. Lawrence stated that if the per capita gifts reached by a certain other denomination were attained by Baptists, $72 per member, total gifts in one year would be $300,000,000 and with this money 100,000 missionaries would be employed.

"If there was just one believer in the world today," Dr. Lawrence continued, "and that believer should win one person to Christ in one year, and those two should win two more the next year, and the number should be increased in like manner for 32 years there would be over two billion believers."

Missionaries of the Home Mission Board, numbering 285, represent 17 nationalities. About 30, attending the convention, were presented tonight.

Jacob Gartenhaus, Atlanta, was cheered by the audience as he was presented, and spoke briefly on his 15 years as a Jewish evangelist.

Dr. J. W. Beagle, also of Atlanta, field secretary of the Home Mission Board, introduced missionaries who spoke on the program. These included Dr. Alfred Schwab, Church Point, La.; Paul C. Bell, Bastrop, Texas; Thomas Wamgo, Indian, of Oklahoma; G. Lee Phelps, Pawhuska, Okla.; D. Ruiz, Sanangelo, Texas; and C. W. Stumph, Albuquerque, N. Mexico.

Dr. M. N. McCall, missionary in Cuba since 1905, was presented to the convention. He introduced Dr. Antonio Martinez, Cadena, Cuba, who talked on mission work there.

T. V. Timin, Balboa Heights, Canal Zone, said that he had come "3,000 miles, on a month's vacation, to attend the convention and speak five minutes."

Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, pastor of First Baptist church, Atlanta, led the convention against its opening session of the night's session. He is president of the Home Mission Board.

At the morning session Dr. Louis D. Newton, Druid Hills church, Atlanta, was scheduled to speak on the co-operative program, but he was called away to conduct a funeral and his place was taken by Dr. J. W. Storer, Tulsa, Okla.

At the Saturday morning session Rev. Noble Y. Beall, Atlanta, missionary of the Home Mission Board, will speak on "Educating the Negro Baptist Preacher."

CRAZED NEGRO KILLED BY VIRGINIA OFFICERS
GORDONSVILLE, Va., May 15.—(P)—State police machine-gunners killed a crazed negro and his sister in their flaming tenement cottage near here tonight.

The negro, William Wales, 65, had killed a sheriff and wounded four men during a six-hour siege.

Wales died when State Policemen E. L. Keyser, a stuttering thug, and J. H. Kender, a stuttering thug, threw flames, died from a pistol bullet. Both bodies were consumed by the fire.

For hours Wales and his sister, firing from both sides of their shack, had kept a force of 200 to 300 police and citizen-possesmen at bay.

VACATION PLANS.
BETHLEHEM, Pa., May 15.—(P)—At a meeting of the employee representatives of the Bethlehem steel plant today, General Manager R. A. Lewis announced that all employees with five years' consecutive service would be granted a week's vacation with pay.

PLANT EXPANSION.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 15.—(P)—The Birmingham Age-Herald says the Leeds mill of the Universal Atlas Cement Company, United States Steel subsidiary, will be rebuilt and expanded. While the management made no public statement of the cost, the newspaper says "an appropriation of around $1,500,000 has been allotted for the program."

One of the worst spots in the city is found at the intersection of Marietta and Forsyth streets. Patrolman Walter Jones, in charge of this intersection during the day, has his hands full keeping the heavy traffic moving, "ticketing" violators and preventing cars from parking in non-parking zones.

He says he places from 5 to 25 of the new Winnipeg style parking tickets on cars near the intersection each day and declares the parking and traffic problem is getting worse every day. Strict enforcement of law is the one way to correct the evil, he asserts, with Atlanta streets laid out as they are.

A negro preacher was given two parking tickets by Officer Jones yesterday when he persisted in parking in the wrong places near the intersection.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

It was this last that most fascinated Val. In one hand the man held an ordinary file, in the other, a contrivance with a hard rubber handle with a piece of carbon fitted into the top. Both the file and the carbon were wired to the switchboard, separately, and to give off a flash of light, Hugh said, the man would simply draw the carbon across the file. The electrician wore heavy gloves and glasses such as are worn by welders.

"But," Val said, puzzled, "that doesn't make any noise to speak of and there was a sharp crash—like the breaking of glass."

Hugh nodded, still avoiding her eyes. He showed them a box-like affair walled with heavy gauze. There was a piece of canvas over the top and when he lifted this they saw, resting on two metal arms about 10 inches below the top, a large piece of common window glass. Hugh explained that the operator held a hammer in a gloved hand, slipped his hand under the canvas and, at the director's signal, struck the glass a sharp blow between the supporting arms. The heavy gauze sides let out the noise but not, fortunately, the glass.

Behind them the district attorney's voice boomed: "To your places now—every one exactly where and as he was when this scene was last played."

Guy appeared just then and went to the box with Val. In the seats they had occupied that memorable night, Kate and Bret Gallishaw sat side by side. Val could see that Kate was talking rapidly in a low voice, but Bret was not looking at her.

Winifred came through the door of the stage shack, followed by the district attorney and the director. The district attorney took a notebook from his pocket and said, "All right, we're ready."

He nodded to Winifred and she began to speak her lines. The director read Leslie's lines from the script. Kellogg called for silence and came to the end of the stage. "You were using opera glasses, Miss Clarke—where are they?" he said.

"Of all the imbeciles!" Guy said under his breath. He leaned forward. "We were sharing a pair of binoculars. If you want 'em, open the door and call for Jerry. They belong to the show."

The director left the stage and came back almost immediately with the binoculars and gave them to Kellogg, who tossed them to Guy.

Winifred's voice floated through the theater once more, clearly audible above the bass drum's thunder. Now as the director read Leslie's part Winifred slowly turned her head until she caught Bret's eye. Val wondered what wordless message was passing between them, watched Bret's profile for some visible sign that would tell her; but perceived none.

As if drawn by her own intense gaze, Bret's head came around presently and his half-revealed eyes stared up at the box until Val, strangely uneasy, looked away. Why did he glare at her like that?

Her consciousness caught up the drone of the director's voice again, tried to follow the lines; but almost against her will her curious dark gaze returned to Bret at the moment that he and Kate rose and started toward the center aisle.

Instantly Kellogg was over the footlights. "Just a moment—where is this where you went out before?"

"Yes," it was Kate who answered. Bret stared up at the district attorney in silence.

"Very well," Kellogg said. "You come backstage now, Miss Hollister."

Kate nodded, looked back at Bret for a moment, then stepped into the aisle and walked off. Bret started to follow, but the district attorney's voice stopped him:

"Just wait where you were, Gallishaw. As soon as we finish the scene, we'll check yours and Miss Hollister's movements when you left the theater."

Kellogg turned away then and was about to signal the director to continue with Leslie's lines when Bret almost shouted:

"I've had enough of this idiocy, Kellogg. When you decide to conduct this inquiry with at least a semblance of sanity, you will find me at my home."

Bret almost shouted:

Kellogg neither spoke nor moved to stop him. But four men emerged from the shadows beneath the balcony, two in the center aisle, two in the aisle on the opposite side of the section in which Bret and Kate had been sitting.

When the two men in the center aisle met Bret, the three stopped. Val could not hear what was being said, but presently when one of the men put a hand on Bret's arm, Bret wheeled and faced the stage, standing there with clenched fists.

The district attorney said, "I asked you to stay here until we completed this scene, Gallishaw."

"By what authority?" Bret demanded in a hoarse, strained voice. "Am I to understand I am under arrest?"

"You will be if you refuse to do as I say."

Bret advanced toward the stage, shaking a finger at Kellogg: "Do you think you can get away with this outrageous face?" he shouted, angrily. "Why don't you tell these people the truth? You know who killed my step-brother. So do I. And I know why you are so loathe to do your duty. Money . . . Bret's arms were suddenly pinned behind him; a heavy hand was clamped over his mouth. There was a brief struggle—then, as if he realized the futility of resistance, he was still.

"All right, boys," Kellogg said quietly. And as the two men released Bret and stepped back, "Go to your seat until this is over, Gallishaw. If you have anything of importance to say then, you'll be given ample opportunity to say it."

Bret returned to the seat he had occupied when Kate was with him near the center of the row. At either end of the row two detectives sat, immobile, grim.

Val and Guy had been watching Bret so intently that neither was aware that Winifred had come up to the edge of the stage until they heard Kellogg's voice:

"Go back to your place, Miss Sperry."

Winifred was standing there with hands tightly clasped before her, her lovely face almost colorless, her small eyes fastened on Bret. For a moment, she did not move, then she turned, slowly, and recrossed the stage.

"All right," the district attorney said, sharply, "let's get this over with."

Now the drone of voices again . . . the lightning flashes became more frequent, the roll of thunder increased in volume. Then Winifred made her exit. Kellogg followed her to the

THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS AN AMERICAN PENNY

ONE CENT

BILLE VANDERBILT

The copper coin often called a "penny" in America is not a penny at all. An act of congress in 1786 defined this coin as a "cent" and states: "The highest copper piece of which 100 shall equal a dollar" shall be called a cent. At a later date an act outlawed the circulation of the English penny in America, and since that time many people have erroneously called the cent a penny. The English penny is equal to about 2 cents.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK.

Since we have had stories about Texas history and the centennial of Texas, I think you may find it interesting to hear some "facts" about the present-day state.

Texas, the largest American state, is three-fourths as large as Ethiopia. California ranks second in the among American states, and Montana is third.

A single ranch in Texas—the King ranch—contains 1,400,000 acres, and is about the size of the state of Delaware.

Texas leads all other states in the number of its cattle, having more than 6,700,000. There are a few hundred thousand more cattle than people in Texas. The second state for cattle is Iowa.

Several hundred thousand boxes of grapefruit and two or three million boxes of Oranges are produced in Texas each year. It is claimed that the "world's largest grapefruit" was picked near McAllen, Texas, last January. It measured 26 inches around the outside. The state also boasts the "world's largest watermelon," pointing to one which grew in Cass county three years ago and which weighed 183 pounds.

Texas is first among the cotton-growing states, the average crop running three or four million bales during the past few years. Corn, oats, wheat, rice and peanuts are among the other important crops.

Perhaps the most exciting thing about present-day Texas is the output of oil. Hundreds of wells have been drilled, and out of them has poured a liquid mineral. This mineral is brought forth at the rate of more than a million barrels a day, and the value of the state's output is greater than that of all the gold and silver mined in the United States.

For several years Texas has ranked first among the states in oil output, followed by Oklahoma and California. The city of Beaumont is at the center of a great oil-producing region, famed for the Spindletop field and—more recently—for the Amelia field. In the Texas "Panhall" last year the value of oil and gas production was $55,000,000.

The opening of large oil fields has brought good fortune to the state treasury of Texas. The oil industry pays more than half of the state taxes. The schools have received much benefit from such taxes. The University of Texas, located at Austin but with its medical school at Galveston, owns 2,000,000 acres of land. During the past 12 years the oil fields found on this land have brought the university more than $21,000,000.

CHILDLESS MARRIAGES
DISCUSSED BY DOCTORSDiet, Drinking and Lack of Exercise Cited in Symposium.

KANSAS CITY, May 15.—(AP)—The newest thought on why some marriages are childless and how the condition can be corrected was presented today at a symposium of the American Medical Association.

Such a simple thing as eating more breakfast answered one man's problem, Dr. Samuel R. Meaker, of Boston, reported. The man had a protein deficiency, Dr. Meaker said, many childless homes were due to constitutional "depression," listing as some of the causes faulty diet, chronic indigestion and insufficient exercise.

Hormones.
Limited success in hormone injections as a means of making humans reproductive was discussed by Dr. Richard Chute, of Boston. He listed as the three main sources of sterility the anterior pituitary gland, the thyroid and the ovary. The condition appears both in the male and the female as regards the first two glands.

The fact that a husband and wife can be fertile but at the same time constitute a "sterile pair" was reported by Dr. Robert S. Hotchkiss, presenting data collected from studies at New York hospital.

Dr. Hotchkiss praised the work of correcting sterility as one of the opportunities for "pure creative endeavor within the practice of medicine." He touched upon the work of artificially inducing reproduction, asserting that donors in the field just as there are those who donate their blood.

Varying Periods.
Dr. Victor D. Lespinaise, of Chicago, said couples who do not have children for several years are not necessarily incapable. He found that some men have varying periods of fertility, explaining why some couples have their first child after several years of married life.

Sectional officers elected at closing sessions of the association's convention here today.
Practice of medicine: Dr. John H. Musser, New Orleans, chairman.
Ophthalmology: Dr. Emory H. Hill, Richmond, Va., vice chairman.
Surgery, general and abdominal: Dr. Alton Ochsner, New Orleans, vice chairman.

SLAYER OF POLICEMAN MUST DIE, COURT SAYS
The state supreme court yesterday affirmed the conviction and death sentence imposed on Winton Boyer, Hancock county negro, for the slaying of M. L. Stafford, Sparta traffic policeman.

According to the record in the case the negro, one of five being charged by Policeman Stafford for drunk and reckless driving through the streets of Sparta, turned on his pursuer and killed him rather than submit to arrest.

A date for the execution will be set in a few days.

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

Marshall, Michael Star
In "Till We Meet Again"

Fine performances by major and minor members of the cast make excellent film fare of "Till We Meet Again," which opened yesterday at the Paramount theater for a week's engagement.

Heading the cast are Herbert Marshall and Gertrude Michael, both of whom turn in fine performances in really dramatic roles.

Absolutely supporting them are such sterling players as Lionel Atwill, Frank Reicher and Rod La Rocque, who will be remembered as a film star of the first rank in the pre-talkie days.

The story tells an engrossing tale of two happy lovers, sharing in a show in London. The war wrecks their wedding plans, and Marshall joins the colors.

Miss Michael, unknown to her lover, is a member of the German secret service. She, too, places herself under orders of the high command. The plot gathers momentum from this point forward as Marshall, disguised as a German soldier, enters enemy territory. The lovers meet and the girl realizes how loved she is and she cannot betray the man of her heart.

However, inadvertently she gives the enemy the return of Peter Grimm, the mercy of the enemy. How the sweethearts outwit the German agents and escape makes a thrilling climax to a splendid picture.

Short subjects complete the bill.

'Return of Peter Grimm'
On Screen at Capitol

A unit of Major Bowes' amateurs and a fine feature picture appeared at the Georgia theater yesterday for a week's run of excellent entertainment.

The screen fare is that famous drama, "The Return of Peter Grimm," immortalized on the stage by the late David Belasco, great American theatrical producer.

The plot features Lionel Barrymore and Helen Mack, with an able supporting cast, with such players as Donald Meek, Edward Ellis, Allen Vincent, and George Breckston and Greta Meyer.

Unit No. 3 of the major's amateurs, the third unit to play in this city, appears on the stage with 11 acts in the show.

Among the winners who appear with this group are Major Bowes' original one-man band; the Encores harmonica quintet; Beulah Bedford singing housewife; DeHann and Kramer, marimba duo; Bob Santley, accordionist, and his brother, Bill, singer; Boole Powell, pianist.

All of these in the unit possess plenty of talent, and the variety of the program met with the approval of the opening day's audience.

Short subjects rounded out a fine bill.

and that it really touched a deep moral feeling.

"We know now a nation, just as an individual, should guard against giving a false appearance of ingratiation."

"Perhaps this misunderstanding could be obliterated," he continued, "if we attempt a common effort to create an honest state of feeling in Europe and the world, if we make the world, relieve it of all barriers which enclose us, if we can revive the spirit of antagonism over tariff and monetary affairs and can establish normal relations between the nations of Europe."

Members of the chamber of deputies declared it would be political suicide to reopen the debt question. Some move in that direction, they asserted, would mean with determined opposition to the socialist party, in addition to creating a possible split in France's future supporters in other parties.

Dunne in Stellar Role
In 'Showboat' at the Fox

All the glorious entertainment that made "Showboat" one of the classics of the American stage is retained in the film version of the musical romantic drama which came to the Fox theater yesterday.

With Irene Dunne playing the leading feminine role as "Magnolia," the cast ably carries the story of life and love along the Mississippi river.

Not the least of the film's charm is the freshness of the Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein music, which retains its appeal despite the frequency of its hearing. A singing chorus of 200 is a feature.

The songs which helped to make the stage presentation such an unusual success are featured in the film, and three new tunes were created by the composers for the 1936 version.

Allan Jones, who plays opposite Miss Dunne, sings extremely well, and should go far in motion pictures in his calling for personality, good acting and good singing. Paul Robeson, who played Joe in the London company of the stage, sings "Old Man River" with feeling and depth.

Many of those who appeared in the original New York cast play roles in the picture, including Charles Winger as Captain Andy; Helen Morgan as Julie; Francis X. Mahoney as Rubberface; and Sammy White as Schultz.

James Whales' direction is sure and deft. "Showboat" is a grand entertainment.

CLASS RATE REVISION
URGED FOR SOUTH, WEST

I. C. C. Examiners Would Establish New Rail Tariff Charges.
WASHINGTON, May 15.—(AP)—A broad revision of class rates for rail traffic moving between the south and certain western territory with a consequent reduction of thousands of dollars annually was recommended today by two Interstate Commerce Commission examiners.

In a proposed report which is subject to review by the commission, the examiners—William J. Reiche and Charles M. Bardwell—suggested a general revamping of the existing class rate structure between the two territories.

Class rates apply primarily to manufactured articles and less than carload traffic.

The western territory which would be affected extends from the Canadian boundary to northern Oklahoma and Arkansas and from the Rocky mountains to the Mississippi river and Lake Michigan. Roughly, southern territory comprises the states east of the Mississippi and south of the Ohio.

Koebel and Bardwell suggested that present "combination" rates between the two territories be wiped out and that "joint" rates be substituted.

Under the combination rates, the total rates between points in the two territories is figured on the basis of one or more different rates within each territory. The joint rate would provide a single, through charge.

The report said the change would simplify the rate structure generally, several shippers having complained that the present complex system resulted in confusion.

One witness for the South Dakota Railroad Commission testified that numerous over charges and under charges were caused by the existing set-up.

Revision of the rate structure was asked by various western shippers, the state commission of North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kentucky, the North Carolina Traffic League, New Orleans Traffic Bureau and certain shippers in southern Virginia and Tennessee.

RUSSIA WILL MATCH
JAP AND REICH FLEETSStrength Made Known in Naval Pact Talks With Britain.

(Copyright 1936, by United Press.)
LONDON, May 15.—(UP)—Soviet Russia broke the secret of just how strong she is at sea by announcing today she will match the fleet of Japan's naval strength in the Baltic and Japan's in the Far East.

A brief note from Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky to Sir Robert Vansittart, permanent under-secretary for foreign affairs, cleared away a mystery that has surrounded Russia's naval strength.

The world's strongest land power, and the world's policy will bring her close to the top among the armed nations of the world.

Maisky's note was the latest development in negotiations for a Russo-British naval treaty which is designed to supplement the Franco-American pact on March 25. That agreement provides for limitations—namely, that is, limitation of warships by classes, type-tonnage and gun caliber, but not by total strength.

In his note Maisky reserved complete liberty for the soviet union to build up its Far Eastern fleet. Limitation of Russian floating strength in European waters, the note added, will depend on acceptance by Germany of similar restrictions.

The western treaty, Great Britain's invitation to negotiate a naval treaty which would include full exchange of advance information concerning a building program, the two important reservations are that Russia must be allowed to match naval strength with Japan and Germany unless they agree to restrictions.

Unless Japan negotiates a treaty with Russia, the soviet union will give advance information on naval building in the Far East.

At present Russia is the big question mark in the minds of persons who have been waiting for the British admiralty publication, "Fleets," under Soviet Russia's name.

The publication, "Fighting Ships," lists for Russia five old battleships, including two built in 1900. The book credits the soviet with 28 submarines, including 10 built in 1930. It also lists 10 submarines.

The present situation is this: The western treaty and the United States have negotiated a treaty providing for qualitative restriction. It is contingent on Japan's acceptance of the treaty, which is in the hands of the British admiralty.

Conversations aiming at a German-British treaty have proceeded for several months. Germany has delayed signing until the Russian treaty becomes clear. Maisky's note clarifies the soviet's plans.

DISARMING ORDERED

dissolved Vienna's "protective corps," an auxiliary police force of 600 picked men, consisting mainly of Heimwehr. Its dissolution had been planned originally for May 15.

Only 70 members of the protective corps—the so-called Starhemberg Chasseurs, or the prince's private bodyguard—were permitted to remain.

Schuschnigg, addressing the fatherland front formerly commanded by Starhemberg, said the only armed force outside the regular army will be the militia, of which he is commander-in-chief.

"Rivalries between private armies must end once and for all," he said. "The regular army will be the militia, and all forces outside of this will not be allowed to be armed."

Schuschnigg indicated that Austria will, to a large extent, abandon the fascist principles instituted by Starhemberg and give the workers a voice in the management of the state.

"We intend to follow a more democratic line and bring the nation's workers into our councils," he said. "The protective corps will be dissolved, and the government will be continued."

"It is basic to the Rome protocol (among Italy, Austria and Hungary). We are ready to live in peace and amity with all those who are ready for close co-operation with us."

Schuschnigg's declaration that the Heimwehr will be disarmed was greeted with a tremendous cheer.

"The militia," he said, "will be the executive organ of the fatherland front. Its leader will be Vice Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, and they will collaborate with the army."

Meanwhile, Starhemberg is in Rome, ostensibly to participate in sports competition but actually to consult his fascist idol, Premier Benito Mussolini. Heimwehr leaders hope II Duce will act to save Starhemberg. Any intention by Mussolini, however, would be a counter-move to British and French representations. The United Press learned that British and French representations precipitated the downfall of Starhemberg after the prince sent Premier Mussolini a message of congratulation on Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

The Heimwehr believe II Duce may launch a counter-action to the Anglo-Franco representations on grounds that they constitute interference in Austria's internal affairs.

FORGOTTEN ARTIST
PASSES IN DENVERNoted Painter's Death Announcement Delayed
Three Days.

DENVER, Col., May 15.—(AP)—Michael Edward O'Brien, the "forgotten artist" of Denver, is dead, but the announcement of death was delayed three days.

He died Tuesday at Denver General hospital, listed only as "Michael O'Brien, house painter, 52."

Last year a committee of artists, viewing paintings at an exhibition here decided O'Brien was the "best artist" in Denver.

But O'Brien, living in a rude shack, did not know of the honor until several days later. The committee could not find him. A newspaper reporter finally located him.

Denver's artist colony decided to hold a big reception in O'Brien's honor and almost every artist in the city was there but the house painter. The committee forgot to invite him.

When he entered the hospital several weeks ago no one remembered he was officially Denver's outstanding artist.

The picture that won him local fame was a landscape "Rest By the Roadside."

O'Brien had carried bricks in Denver since 1883 and had painted as a "hobby" in his spare moments. After he won his award last year trunks in his home were found bulging with paintings by his hand. Artists said some were outstanding.

VOTERS APPROVE
TEACHING OF 'ISMS'
Poll in Four Eastern Cities
Part of Complete National Survey.

NEW YORK, May 15.—A preview of the vote from four big eastern seaboard cities on the question of teaching the facts about communism and other "isms" in the public schools shows majorities in all four in favor of such teaching, the American Institute of Public Opinion announced today.

The cities whose votes were reported are New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Baltimore.

The vote of each of the states and that of large cities farther west will be part of the complete national poll to be reported tomorrow.

Asked whether schools should "teach the facts about all forms of government including communism, fascism and socialism," eastern voters indicated the following opinion:

Should Schools Teach Facts About "Isms"?

	Yes	No
Baltimore	53%	47%
Boston	56%	44%
New York	58%	42%
Philadelphia	59%	41%

Some idea of what these majorities represent can be gathered from the following comparison, the Institute pointed out: 53% to 47% is the margin by which McKinley defeated Bryan in 1900; 59% to 41% is the margin by which Roosevelt won in 1932.

Polls of the Institute of Public Opinion are reported every Sunday in The Constitution.

DOUBLE SNUBS SHIRLEY,
ASKS TO SEE STARSParis Youngster Not Impressed by Temple's Poor
French.

By THEON WRIGHT.
HOLLYWOOD, May 15.—(UP)—Petite Mlle. Ginevra Marchionni-Foret, eight-year-old French edition of Shirley Temple, put the snub on the real Shirley today, and went looking for stars outside Hollywood.

She wound up eventually at Mt. Wilson astronomical observatory, where she saw millions of them—and appeared considerably more impressed than by Shirley.

Mlle. Ginevra was shipped there by the Paris newspaper, "Pour Vous," which rewarded her with a visit to Hollywood for looking like America's box-office attraction.

In Shirley's Corner.
The meeting with Shirley herself was the piece de resistance of the visit. It was arranged in Shirley's own corner, at her dressing room on the 20th Century-Fox lots. As soon as Mlle. Ginevra arrived, she was hustled off to the studio to see the real McCoy.

The mademoiselle from Gay Paree, as full of business as an albatross at a flea circus, inspected Shirley briskly, murmured a frosty "bon jour!" and promptly wanted to know where she might see "les grandes stars."

Asked whether she expected to see that nobody broke any contracts, favored the visiting lady with a bleak glance.

Shirley, whose unique talents virtually rewrote the Fox national anthem ("Red Ink, You Make Me Blue") seemed a bit baffled, but smiled brightly and managed to break out with: "Tray bene, madam—wash-sell—ay voo?"

"I Want To See Big Stars," the lady from Paris repeated in French, with questionable insistence.

Even the news photographers seemed a bit embarrassed, until it was explained Mlle. Ginevra's itinerary included a visit to Mt. Wilson observatory and a peep through the world's most powerful telescope.

Mrs. Temple was somewhat testy after that about a request of news cameramen Shirley be allowed to pose with the French girl, but finally consented and Shirley prettied herself for the pictures.

Later studio experts explained Shirley's grasp of the French language was not yet complete, which "put her at a disadvantage."

Mlle. Ginevra presented Shirley with a life-size French doll, shook hands with a refrigerator, "au revoir!" and departed, leaving most of the ringside critics agreed that if Shirley wants to win the next argument in French with her little sister from across the sea, she had better brush up on the language.

MOSCOW REPORTS
TROOPS FIRED ON Border Patrol Claims Bullets Came From Manchoukuoan Side.

MOSCOW, May 16.—(Saturday AP)—An official soviet news agency dispatch from Khabarovsk, Siberia, today said a soviet border patrol had been subjected to rifle fire from the Manchukuoan side of the frontier, breaking more than a month of quiet along the boundary.

The official Tass agency stated the Russian soldiers, anxious to avoid a clash, did not return the fire. The incident, the account asserted, occurred May 13.

The last Russo-Japanese border encounter reported here took place April 9 at Sosnovaya Piat, when two Japanese soldiers were killed in a clash which the soviet declared resulted from an invasion of soviet territory.

Since that time negotiations have been continuing between the Japanese and soviet government for settlement of frontier troubles.

The Tass agency of the latest incident said 25 Japanese soldiers took up a position across the Manchukuoan boundary opposite a hilltop where a soviet patrol of five men was stationed, near a place called Norovysk.

The Japanese, it was stated, directed persistent rifle fire against the Russian troops. The report mentioned no casualties.

STILL OUT OF CONTROL
MIAMI, Fla., May 15.—(AP)—Muck fires, spread over a large area in the Everglades 12 miles west of Davie, continued to burn today despite efforts to check them.

C. M. Rubinson, Broward district fire warden, said work was handicapped by lack of water in canals of the area, "but I expect to have the fire well under control soon."

Federal Agent Slain

CHICAGO, May 15.—(AP)—E. C. Yellowley, chief of the Chicago alcohol tax unit of the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue, announced today that his agents had obtained a "full confession" from James Jacobs, of Indianapolis, in the slaying of John R. Foster, revenue agent.

Yellowley said Jacobs named Harlan Crouch, of Indianapolis, as the other occupant of the automobile from which was fired the shot that killed Foster near Hammond, Ind., early yesterday.

The federal bureau chief refused to disclose which of the men Jacobs said fired the fatal shot.

Yellowley quoted Jacobs as saying 200 gallons of untaxed alcohol was loaded into their automobile at Chicago Heights. The men were driving back to Indianapolis when Foster and another internal revenue agent began pursuing them. Yellowley said the statement continued.

The two men recognized their pursuers as government agents, Yellowley said he was told. Both men are ex-convicts, he said. Crouch, having served a term from Laporte county (Indiana) for carrying concealed weapons.

Yellowley predicted the arrest of Crouch "within 24 hours."

Yellowley said the car in which Jacobs was arrested in Chicago Heights yesterday was the car in which Foster was shot. The rifle used in the shooting was not found in the car as previously believed but "somewhere else," Yellowley continued.

After the shooting, the two men drove back to Chicago Heights and separated there, the federal chief declared. He said they were not members of an alcohol ring, but merely "bootleggers."

GIVEN ACTION LOOMS ON RITTER'S REFUSAL

Ousted Judge Locks Doors of Office; Will Demand Back Pay.

MIAMI, Fla., May 15.—(AP)—Halted the Miami Herald's flat-footed refusal to vacate his Miami federal building office following his recent senate removal as a district judge apparently opened the way tonight for United States Department of Justice action on the matter.

The Miami Herald quoted Smith W. Purnum, fourth assistant postmaster general in Washington, as saying that the 65-year-old former jurist fails to give up his office "it will be the first time in my knowledge a federal judge who had been impeached and removed from office would not vacate his chambers upon orders from the Postoffice Department in Washington."

In case Ritter does continue to occupy his federal office, the Herald continued quoting Purnum, the entire case would be turned over to the Department of Justice for whatever action Attorney General Cummings decides to take.

Spurns Ouster.

The gray-haired former Denver lawyer, who served on the federal bench here from 1920, announced yesterday he already had refused Postmaster William C. Hill's request to vacate his office. Ritter said he would not leave his office until he had been paid back pay.

At the same time, he announced that he would soon bring legal proceedings in the federal court of claims demanding his salary, pointing out that he had been removed from office and also attacking constitutionality of the senate's conviction of him on one "catch-all" house impeachment article after acquitting him of six specific charges.

With a chuckle, the slightly built man, who always conducted court formally clad in his judicial robes, pointed out there were no precedents for his case, because it would be the first time in history that a senate impeachment action has been carried to court.

Locks Doors.

Defying Postmaster Hill's request to vacate, Ritter went back to his federal building office today and behind locked doors continued to prepare his court of claims case.

The Postoffice Department in Washington said Postmaster Hill, who is away from Miami now, had not made a report on Ritter's continued occupancy of office. Assistant Postmaster S. R. Valliere said nothing would be done until Ritter's salary was received from Washington.

He denied reports the locks on Ritter's office would be changed to prevent him from entering, unless they were ordered by Washington authorities.

Providing Basis.

Observers believed Ritter's daily attendance at his office was to provide grounds for future salary demand in the court of claims, which he said, would not require the permission of the government.

The senate removed the judge from office April 18 after convicting him of one count charging misconduct and with bringing his court into "scandal and disrepute."

After being acquitted on the first six charges, one vote switch on the last count gave the necessary two-thirds majority for conviction.

RETURNS TO DUTY

Patrolman Kinard Recovers After Pneumonia.

Patrolman A. L. Kinard, who won a victory over death while serving in the navy during the World War, recorded a peace-time "win" yesterday. Patrolman Kinard resumed duty at Grady hospital following an attack of pneumonia which kept him off duty for several weeks. He was a patient in Piedmont hospital.

The officer's first brush with death occurred on July 1918, when the transport Covington was struck by a German submarine torpedo 140 miles from Brest, France. He was in the engine room and was rescued by comrades.

He has been a member of the police department since 1922, and has engaged in a number of gun battles with criminals. Since suffering a light stroke of paralysis several years ago, he has been assigned to light duty.

Bond Firm Victims Say W.A. Smith Inveigled Their Life Savings Away

By LAMAR K. BALL.

A dozen men and women from Georgia and Alabama who had cracked open their nest eggs and turned their stocks and bonds into the huge fund that financed B. R. Bradley's search for the end of the rainbow, followed one another in steady procession into United States district court yesterday to put the finger on William A. Smith, Bradley's super-salesman.

It was a day of satisfaction, more or less, for Robert E. S. Lee, the talkative Earl of Pelham. Lee reached the peak of inactivity at one point during the day when he waved a government witness from the stand and announced, simply:

"No questions."

This unpremeditated action from Lee stirred the courtroom into a momentary turmoil. Jurors, opposing counsel and spectators gasped. But the witness, E. W. Cook, of Reynolds, Ga., had nothing to say against the Earl. His testimony was only a brief confirmation of the charges that Smith had taken his money and had made the contract with Bradley, heavy returns on whatever investments he could scrape out of the old stock.

It was Smith's day in court. The government hammered again and again at the Bradley star salesman, who has been described as the only member of the Bradley family who had an intimate contact with Bradley and who was given the right to call the imposing, aloof Bradley just plain "Tom."

The government also brought out in its evidence and testimony why Bradley had once told ex-Statistician and Sales Manager Stengel, and "we'll just put it up with Bill."

The special arrangement Smith had with Bradley was revealed to have been a contract that Smith had to get 25 percent of the net returns of his investments. A postscripted paragraph at the bottom of the contract stipulated that Bradley was not to pay anything unless the net returns amounted to more than 10 percent a month.

Then Mrs. Jewell Wachendorf, of Atlanta, another witness, told how she had turned over 20 shares of Coca-Cola stock to Smith, who wanted to use it as office space in New Orleans.

She converted the stock into $127.25 cash, she said, and he was to repay her out of the 25 percent commission he was to collect from his personal contacts with her.

Smith defaulted in his payments, said Mrs. Wachendorf, so she visited the offices of the American Bond & Share Company, where she told her story to Bradley.

"Mr. Bradley told me," she said, "that he would pay Smith's arrears of $127.25 out of his account with the company."

"Did you get your money?" "I did not," Thomas, attorney for Smith, asked Mrs. Wachendorf. "You knew this was a personal loan didn't you?"

"Yes," Wachendorf thought for a while and then answered: "Yes."

Old Alumnus.

From Gadsden, Ala., came W. W. Oyer, who said his confidence in Smith had been aroused by the fact that Smith had told him he was an old alumnus of Auburn (Alabama) college, "the same as I was."

"He told me of Bradley's ability as a trader and how Bradley had been in the market for years and had never shown a loss," said Oyer.

"Smith told me the company's agreements were legal and had been approved by the Federal Reserve commission," Smith told me he had been told they were legal during one of his recent visits to Washington.

"Smith showed me a book with letters signed by heads of banks and brokerage houses in Atlanta about their favorable dealings with the American Bond and Share Company," he turned over $4,000 worth of securities and I was to get a $500 credit with the company."

Envelope of Records.

Oyer had an envelope full of records to which he constantly referred as he answered the questions of Assistant United States Attorney M. J. Bell. At the end of the questioning, Thomas asked:

"Mr. Oyer, let me see your files." Federal Judge William H. Barrett told Oyer that if he selected, he need not submit his files to Thomas' examination.

"I object," said Oyer.

"Object," said Thomas, "if he objects, I excuse him."

Lee's most interesting contribution to the events of the day was his dialogue with Mrs. Rebecca Mary May, of Atlanta, who told how she had invested in the American Bond and Share Corporation after Lee and a salesman named Steele had visited her at her home.

Ought to Remember.

Neil Andrews had asked Miss May: "What date did Lee first visit you?"

Miss May's answer was inaudible. Lee bounced up.

"Didn't hear that answer."

Miss May glared at Lee and replied in loud, crisp tones:

"Well, you certainly ought to remember the day you came out to my home."

Andrews drew from Miss May the charge that she had tried to withdraw her money 30 days after she had turned it over to Steele.

"After you had filed this demand," Andrews said.

Andrews drew from Miss May the charge that she had tried to withdraw her money 30 days after she had turned it over to Steele.

Andrews drew from Miss May the charge that she had tried to withdraw her money 30 days after she had turned it over to Steele.

Did you ever withdraw it?" asked Andrews.

"Never."

"Did you get your money back?"

"Absolutely not!"

Lee approached his cross-examination of Miss May in modulated tones.

"How long was I at your home the first day I visited you?"

"You were there about an hour."

"Did I talk to your father?"

"Yes, indeed. You told him all about your ancestors."

"Did I talk to you about your furniture?"

"I don't doubt that you did. We have some very lovely things—but that has nothing to do with this."

And Miss May's jaw snapped in dismissal of that subject.

Lucy E. Brooks, of Atlanta, told of turning over $200 Georgia Power Company stock to Smith and opening a $300 account with the Bradley firm.

"However, I was to collect the dividend from the power company," said Mrs. Brooks. "I did not get the dividend from the power company so I called and complained at the Bradley offices. In three days got a check for $15, signed by Bradley, that should have come from the Georgia Power Company."

Shown Charts on Wall.

Miss Bessie Anderson, of Atlanta, told of how she had been told of Bradley's remarkable success in the stock market and how she had visited Bradley in his office, where she was shown charts on the wall.

"A salesman and Mr. Bradley described all the art on the walls," said Anderson. "It has been brought out earlier in the trial that Smith did not understand these charts and Stengel, who prepared them, admitted the stand that he doubted if Bradley in his office, where she was shown charts on the wall."

The impressions she gathered on this trip, in inspection, Miss Anderson admitted, induced her to turn over to the company 500 shares of North American Trust, 30 shares of Citizens Southern National Bank stock, five shares of First National Bank of Atlanta, eight shares of Georgia Power preferred and six shares of Alabama Power preferred.

Dr. A. O. Lynch, Atlanta physician, described how he had turned over to Smith securities worth $2,400. He said he tried to withdraw his funds later, but he was told by Smith: "John A. Thurston, upon county school superintendent, of Thomaston, Ga., described how he had lost faith in stock salesmen and had been backward in succumbing to Smith's salesmanship. Then, he said, he received a letter from Lee, describing the company's 113 per cent dividends and turned over two $1,000 bonds."

E. W. Cook, of Reynolds, Ga., told how he had been guaranteed $200 a month by Smith.

Fleetwood S. Jones, of Newton county, said he had given B. L. Tumbler, another Bradley salesman, 53 shares of Georgia Power Company stock, which cost him about $5,300.

John F. Green, of Decatur, said he invested $2,000 in cash and 50 shares of Georgia Power Company stock in the company. C. F. Morris and Ludwig Lacher, of Atlanta, both told of investments in which they lost their money.

Through all this, Lee sat quietly most of the day and George Thomas led in the cross-examination for the government. At one point Lee arose to tell the court that he agreed the sales evidence the government was putting into the record would be accepted by him without argument.

"I haven't heard such welcome language in a long time," said Judge Barrett. The trial will be resumed today at 9:30 o'clock. The prosecution will rest its case today.

WITNESS STATES STEPS COLLAPSED

Hearing Continues in Tornado Claim Cases at Gainesville.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., May 15.—(AP)—Attorneys disputed today whether the death of a person in a factory here April 6 was result of an act of God, or failure to provide adequate safety facilities.

The jury heard testimony that the factory, when overloaded by employees who sought to flee the building, collapsed, and that the secondary door, near the entrance was locked, preventing quick exit from the plant.

Hearings on approximately 500 death and injury claims following the tornado April 6 began yesterday before Hal Stanley, chairman of the Georgia Industrial Commission, and head of the Georgia Workmen's Compensation Board.

First cases heard grew out of destruction of the Cooper pants factory. The plant was wrecked by wind, then swept by fire.

Attorneys for the company and its insurance firm said the tornado was an act of God. Attorneys for the workers charged safety devices were inadequate, and that machinery in the factory was too heavy.

The testimony was entered into the record of evidence which will be studied by Stanley and the commission.

ROOSEVELT AND PARTY ON TWO-DAY CRUISE

WASHINGTON, May 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt left the White House late today for Annapolis, Md., aboard the yacht "Potomac" for two nights and two days of cruising on Chesapeake bay and the Potomac river.

Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture, and head of the Reclamation Administration, and Mrs. Tugwell; Captain Paul H. Rastetter, the President's new naval aide; and Miss Margaret Lee Hand, his personal secretary.

THREE NEW RECORDS ARE MADE BY AMY

CROYDON AIRBORNE, England, May 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Amy Johns Morrison, England's number one airwoman, put three new records into her logbook tonight.

She returned from Capetown, South Africa, setting records each way for the solo flight and a new one for the round trip. She made the round trip in 4 days, 16 hours, 18 minutes, trimming the record of flight Lieutenant Tommy Rose of 6 days, 6 hours, 57 minutes.

She covered the total distance of more than 14,000 miles across the Sahara and Africa's jungles and back in a flying time of 7 days, 22 hours and 43 minutes.

CHARLES REID TO SPEAK AT BANQUET TONIGHT

The annual Phi Phi Day banquet of the Delta Theta Phi law fraternity will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Ansley hotel.

Charles S. Reid, an active member of the American Law Institute, will be principal speaker and J. Walter McCraw, assistant solicitor of Fulton county, will be toastmaster.

LOCUSTS SWARMING OVER NORTH CAROLINA

RALEIGH, N. C., May 15.—(AP)—The shrill drumming of 17-year locusts swept over Wilkes county today.

The state department of agriculture received reports of the appearance of the cicadas "by the hundreds and thousands."

Nineteen North Carolina counties, from Wake westward to the Tennessee line, will hear the insects during the locust invasion.

The insects do not harm field crops, but the females in laying eggs sometimes damage young apple trees.

COOL, CLEAR WEATHER WILL CONTINUE TODAY

Temperatures in Atlanta stayed below the 76-degree mark yesterday and will rise no higher today, according to word from the United States Weather Bureau.

"It will be a clear, sunny day," was the announcement of Chief Forecaster George W. Minding. "Saturday should be a duplicate of Friday."

Cool nights have returned, it was said. The forecast for the night of May 15 is scheduled to be around 56 degrees. Yesterday morning it was 63 degrees. The clear weather is general over the country.

Talmadge Says He Argued With Attorneys, 'But They Wouldn't Listen.'

Governor Talmadge said last night Atlanta Banks he forced to pay $300,000 interest on frozen state deposits "ought to sue" the lawyers who "gave them wrong advice" to get back the money.

The Governor was speaking over the radio in another of his talks to the people on "State Affairs."

Talmadge said $300,000 worth of road work "can be started tomorrow" if Washington now will release apportioned $12,000,000 held up pending a court decision that "Daniel is the legal treasurer of Georgia."

The supreme court decided that question last Saturday, he said.

"I was a United States senator," Talmadge said, "in the morning I would see that this money was kicked loose or everybody from Maine to California would know that I was on the job for my state."

"Now, it is only the hit dog that hollers. Let's see which congressman or which senator is the first to cuss old Talmadge."

"The one who does is the one who cusses me by my speech tonight and I will make sure the check is drawn by Treasurer J. B. Daniel but they would not listen."

Speaking about national affairs, the Governor said he had no place for "Frankfurter, Tugwell, Clegg, Wallace, et al. in any political convention."

He said that if they ran the "democratic ship on the rocks" he would be there to pick up and mend the pieces.

Talmadge again criticized the national administration for its policy of spending.

DANIEL TO BE GIVEN BANK BONDS TODAY

George B. Hamilton, suspended state treasurer, today will turn over to J. B. Daniel, his Talmadge-appointed successor, bonds posted by state deposits made by him before his removal from office by Governor Talmadge.

Hamilton will meet with Daniel this morning at the Federal Reserve Bank where the bonds will be transferred to Daniel's custody.

A representative of State Auditor Tom Wisdom will be present to check the bonds and receipt for them.

Daniel yesterday announced that he had received a check for $10,000 from the First National Bank of Atlanta, another Bradley salesman, 53 shares of Georgia Power Company stock, which cost him about $5,300.

John F. Green, of Decatur, said he invested $2,000 in cash and 50 shares of Georgia Power Company stock in the company. C. F. Morris and Ludwig Lacher, of Atlanta, both told of investments in which they lost their money.

GARNER AND PARTY FISH IN N. CAROLINA

MANTEO, N. C., May 15.—(AP)—Vice President John N. Garner and a party of senators arrived here today to try their luck at catching bluefish.

In the party were Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, majority leader, and Senators Bachman, of Nebraska; Burlew, of North Dakota; Brown, of New Hampshire, and Murphy, of Iowa.

The guests of the vice president's first visit to this section, but Senator Robinson has fished frequently here with Warren.

The party will be taken to Oregon inlet to fish tomorrow.
